Analog Signal Interpolation

Jishnu Bhattacharjee, Debanjan Mukherjee, & Abhijit Phanse
ABSTRACT

A linear interpolator is provided that includes differential pairs of transistors biased such that a first input voltage may be multiplied by a factor r wherein $0 \le r \le 1$ and such that a second input voltage may be multiplied by the complement factor (1-r). By combining the multiplied input voltages, a linear interpolation is provided based upon the factor r.